

Instead of having two different HungryBehaviour for the different types of Dinosaur (Stegosaur and Allosaur), we decided to merge them into one with the help of if statmenets. This would decrease the code duplication.

The implementation is also quiet different from how it was designed in the beginning, this is because of the existing methods and classes that can be reused to aid the functionality instead of creating new ones.

